I spoke with Fred Stroud on the phone regarding the increase in interest with the Saad site. He said that he had not released any new information regarding the Saad site. The project is still being held up by the EPA's lawyers in judicial review for unilateral order against Ellis Saad. The EPA lawyer has been changed to Wilda Cobb. I told Fred that I was going to call Drew Goddard to see if he knew anything and that I would call him back with any information. Fred suggested that the wheels might begin to turn if someone from the state contacted Wilda expressing the desire for more expeditious action concerning the Sad site.
